Yellow warning
Rain

Between 12:00 Sun 23 Feb 2025 and
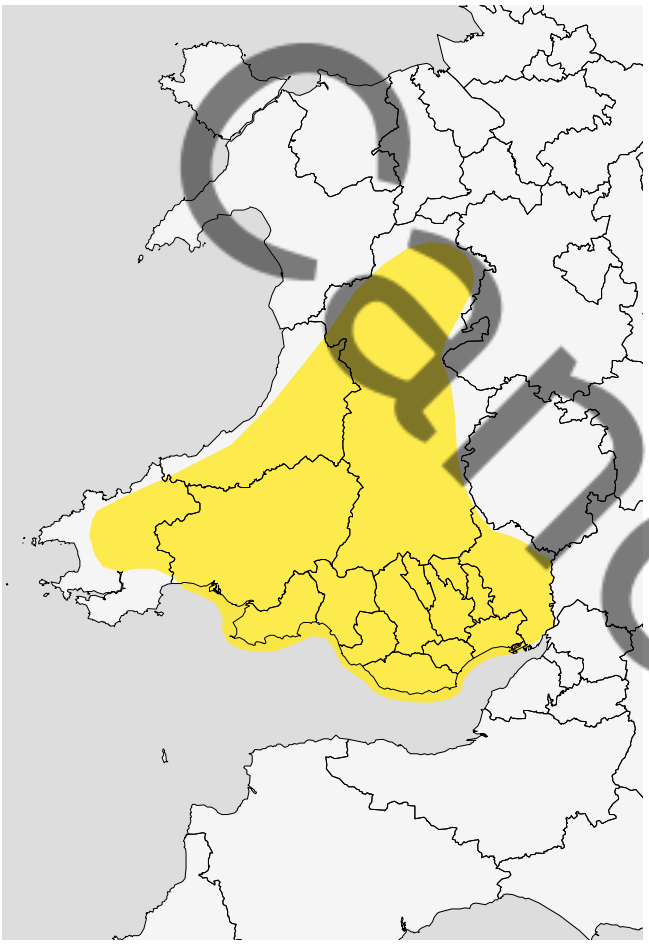
08:00 Mon 24 Feb 2025



Heavy rain may result in some flooding and transport disruption on Sunday and into Monday morning

What to expect

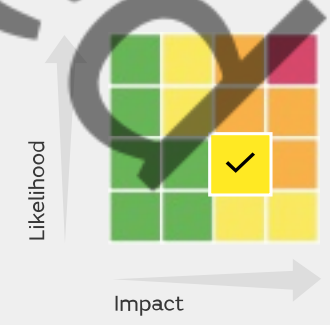
- Homes and businesses could be flooded, causing damage to some buildings
- Fast flowing or deep floodwater is possible, causing a danger to life
- Delays or cancellations to train and bus services are possible
- Spray and flooding could lead to difficult driving conditions and some road closures
- Some communities may be cut off by flooded roads
- Possible power cuts and loss of other services to some homes and businesses

Further details

Rain will become persistent and heavy through Sunday, clearing to the east overnight but followed by showers into Monday morning. Accumulations of 20-40 mm are expected widely, with the heaviest rain over high ground, especially over south or southwest-facing hills. As much as 80-100 mm may fall in the most exposed areas, covered by a separate Amber warning. Rain will also be accompanied by strong south to southwesterly winds, making for poor travel conditions.

What Should I Do?

Check if your property could be at risk of flooding.



Low likelihood of medium impacts

If so, consider preparing a flood plan and an emergency flood kit.

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

People cope better with power cuts when they have prepared for them in advance. It's easy to do; consider gathering torches and batteries, a mobile phone power pack and other essential items.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.

Reason for cancellation

Although some further showery rain is expected the most persistent and heaviest rain has now moved away from the warning area.
